MUNICIPAL MATTERS.

The Variety Cafe License Matter Not Yet Settled.

STATUS OF THE POLICE FORCE.

The Special Meeting of the Council To-morrow—The City's Financial Condition—Food For Reflection Therein.

The session of the city council held on Tuesday night was the most protracted ever held by this council, and it was certainly the stormiest. The members who opposed the granting of a license for a saloon under the variety theatre had a big fight on their hands, but with the assistance of Mayor Scott they came out on top. This settles the question so far as the council is concerned, and it will now be brought before the supreme court, which meets on Monday, by Judge Powers and Mr. Dickson, on an application for a mandamus to compel the council to issue the license. The prevailing opinion seems to be that Mr. Perry will come out ahead, even Mr. Varian, who will fight Powers and Dickson, admitting that it is a very dubious question.

The Police Department.

Captain Parker has recovered from his recent indisposition sufficiently to enter upon the discharge of his duties and was found at his desk by a HERALD reporter. When asked what the condition of the department was, the captain replied, "Including the two officers appointed on Tuesday night, there are now thirty-five men on the force, all told. Of these, one is captain, two are desk sergeants, one is court bailiff, three are sergeants, seven do duty at the depots, three are mounted, while one does special work, leaving a force of seventeen patrolmen to protect a city of 52,000 inhabitants. This is, in my opinion, insufficient. The department, however, is in good working order, and is doing very well."

The police alarm system has been ready for use for some time, but owing to the culpable negligence of the Gaynor company, it is not yet in operation. After getting the system in first-class running order, the company rendered it practically useless by not sending on the keys or even the signal paper. The vigilant police committee ought to look into this matter.

The City and County Building.

The council will devote to-morrow evening to considering the city and county building scheme. It is expected that the county committee will be present, and that some definite plan may be at last decided upon. There is a disposition on the part of some councilmen to repudiate the recommendations of the council committee, but it is certain that if a vote had been taken on Tuesday night the report would have been accepted.

The New Bridge.

The contract for building the bridges over the canal on Roper street and across the Jordan has been awarded to Shea & Nye. The canal bridge will cost $325, and the Jordan bridge $1,878. Work will be commenced at once.

The City's Finances.

Auditor Hoag's report of the receipts and disbursements of the city for the quarter ending December 31, which was submitted to the council on Tuesday night shows that the total receipts were $294,086.33, which, with $16,048.49 on hand on October 1, makes a total of $301,143.82. The disbursements during the quarter amounted to $272,267.07, leaving a balance in the treasury on January 1, of $37,865.75.

The report is as follows:

The taxpayers will find some food for reflection in this report, and they will be able to see just how their money has been spent. If this rate is maintained—and it is more apt to be increased than diminished—the city's expenses will foot up considerably over a million a year.

NEURALGIA CAUSES MUCH INSANITY.

The highest medical authorities of Europe and America have recently decided that a large percentage of cases of insanity is caused by the excruciating pains of neuralgia of the head and face. If any member of your family suffers this tormentor, induce them to try Ballard's Snow Liniment. One application will afford immediate relief and you will soon be rid of a dangerous and tormenting disease. Ballard's Snow Liniment is the most penetrating liniment known. It positively cures rheumatism, lame back, contracted muscles, old sores, corns, bunions, etc. It penetrates and opens the pores, drawing all poisonous matter to the surface, restoring and promoting a natural circulation of the blood through the diseased parts.—11. *

LIVING ON THE REPUTATION OF OTHERS.

"Take everything that I have but my good name; leave me that and I am content." So said the philosopher. So say all manufacturers of genuine articles to that horde of imitators who thrive upon the reputation of others. The good name of ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS has induced many adventurers to put in the market imitations that are not only lacking in the best elements of the genuine article, but are often harmful in their effects.

The public should be on their guard against these frauds, and, when an external remedy is needed, be sure to insist upon having ALLCOCK'S POROUS PLASTERS.

AFTER THE REDSKINS.

The Movements of the Boys of Fort Douglas.

Camping Near Fort Robinson—D and E Companies En Route to a Point on Beaver Creek.

FORT ROBINSON, Neb., Jan. 8.—[From our Special Correspondent in the Field.]—It was our New Year's gift, and that gift was an order to leave for the scene of Indian hostilities. Of course Fort Douglas presented a scene of much animation. All that night (New Year's eve) we were awake. Quickly were the company effects gotten into shape for transportation, and by early dawn of January 1, eight companies under command of Major J. N. Andrews, Twenty-first infantry, were on the march to the cars. Our run to Ogden was without any incident worthy of mention. From Ogden to Cheyenne we were split in two sections, and as we neared Fort D. A. Russell the Seventeenth infantry band treated us to a serenade. From Cheyenne, via the Cheyenne Northern to Fisher, thence by the Fremont, Elkhorn & Missouri Valley to Fort Robinson, we arrived this morning, and are now encamped close to the fort. We are in tents, and thanks to General Greely, of the weather bureau, the climate is very mild. Rumor has it that the Sixth, Fourth and Fourteenth regiments of infantry are en route to this post and that a general war of extermination will be waged against the hostiles. The report of the death of Major Guy V. Henry, Ninth cavalry, with his command is untrue. Some seventy or more refugees, mostly old men, women and children were driven in here in wagons for protection. General Miles has issued an order to the effect that all ranchers must report to the military for protection. These here are quartered in one of the vacated cavalry barracks and are being liberally fed by the government.

We are ordered to sleep on our arms. My next to you may be from some part of the field. The government is using the wire almost constantly and I find it difficult to get a message to you. The boys from Douglas are in the best of health and spirits and all enjoy the camp life.

Crawford, three miles east of here, is crowded with refugees, and over this entire part of Nebraska ranches are vacated. A general uprising is on hand among the reds and a long campaign is before us. This place cannot compare with Fort Douglas; the quarters are not nearly so comfortable and its general appearance is bleak and barren. Our destination is now a mystery. No one knows. General Miles holds us here awaiting orders. It is conjectured that we may be held as a guard to look after Indian captives, but that is only a rumor, and to confess the truth, more imaginary talk is on tap here than beer in the Salt Lake saloons. Guard duty is being done here by company H, of the Twenty-first, doing the honors to-night.

D and E En Route to Beaver Creek.

CHADRON, Neb., Jan. 4.—[From our special Correspondent in the Field.]—Orders were received at 9 o'clock this morning at Ft. Robinson for two companies to go to Chadron and thence proceed to a point on Beaver creek—about twenty-eight miles distant. Arrived this afternoon at Chadron, an immense crowd was at the depot to greet us. Amongst them was seen a company of Nebraska militia thirty-eight strong, who are here from Fremont to guard the town. Our command is composed of two companies, D and E, Sixteenth infantry, and officered by Captains Morrison and Ward and Llutenants Chandler and Ballou. Each man carries fifty rounds of ammunition in his field belt. The court house here is crowded with refuges, as well as every spare room. I am told that parties go out every morning toward the reservation to look out for the marauding reds. A large band of horses was sent from here yesterday to Beaver creek, to be used in mounting the First infantry. A fight between the troops—presumably Carr's command—took place in the vicinity of Beaver creek, the result as yet not known here. No news from Pine Ridge agency to-day, yet courriers report much fighting in that vicinity, and that fourteen riderless horses came into the agency. The excitement in this section runs very high, yet I am inclined that under the able guidance of General Miles the trouble will soon be at an end. We are now sleeping in our cars, and will pull out at 6 o'clock in the morning. The nights are getting very cool and last night, at Fort Robinson, was like camping in an ice house. The boys are cheerful. Our friends in Salt Lake will know by this that our command is split up, but all are well. As the wire is so burdened with military matters, I shall have to trust much to the mails.

IF YOU HAD A FRIEND

About to visit some section of country where malarial disease, either in the form of chills and fever or bilious remittent was particularly rife, what would be about the best advice you could give him? We will tell you—to carry along, or procure on arriving, that potent medicinal safeguard, Hostetter's stomach bitters, known throughout malaria plagued regions, here and in other countries, as the surest means of disarming the miasmatic scourge, and robbing it of its fell destructive influence. Not only does it fortify the system by increasing its stamina, but overcomes irregularity of digestion, the liver and the bowels, and counteracts the unfavorable effect of over-exertion, bodily and mental exposure in rough weather, or occupation too sedentary or laborious, loss of appetite and excessive nervousness. The functions of alimentation, bilious secretion and sleep have in it a most powerful and reliable auxiliary. *

Ballard's Horehound Syrup For Whooping Cough.

Ballard's Horehound Syrup is the most cooling and soothing remedy for consumption, coughs, colds, bronchitis and asthma, in the world. It is free from opium. It builds up new tissue, strengthens the lungs, and is an incomparable remedy, made of the best and purest materials. If your lungs are weak and you have a tickling in your throat, you need it.—11. *

THE JOINT BUILDING.

Architects are Heard by the County Court.

NO DEFINITE ACTION IS TAKEN.

No Money Can be Advanced—Claims Allowed—The County Not Liable for Reporters' Fees in Preliminary Hearings.

The committee appointed at the late meeting of the architects appeared at the county court house yesterday and sailed in with the same set of resolutions presented to the city council on Tuesday evening. A short, and somewhat lively talk followed, in which the architects demanded open competition, when the resolutions were filed and the committee withdrew. It is understood that the joint city and county committee will discuss the matter, which may come up before the county court again today.

THE TREASURER'S REPORT.

J. B. Toronto, treasurer, filed his report for the four months ending Dec. 31, showing a balance of $85,425.34 in the treasury at that date. The report was approved and filed.

HIS ACTION APPROVED.

The action of County Clerk Allen in crediting the county treasurer with $40,036.28 and debiting order account with same amount per cancelled warrants returned to him by the treasurer, was ratified.

TURNED OVER TO THE TREASURER.

Clerk Allen reported $375 turned over to the county treasurer by him up to December 31, 1890.

BONDS APPROVED.

The bonds of W. C. A. Smoot and Riley H. Graves for liquor licenses were approved.

A SAFE FOR THE COLLECTOR.

Judge Bartch reported that he had ordered of the Masher Safe company a safe for the collector's office for $325 and the old safe thrown in.

THE SHERIFF'S EXPENSES.

The county attorney presented an opinion in reference to the sheriff's expenses. He was asked whether the county court was authorized to make monthly appropriations for the same. The attorney gave it as his opinion that the court could not make such appropriations in advance. The law, he said, provides that all payments shall be made in liquidations of expenses incurred and actually due at the time the allowance is made. The statute also provides that all claims must be accompanied by a sworn statement that the "claim is justly due." Hence it is plain that no moneys can be advanced for any purpose.

THE MAXFIELD NUISANCE.

Regarding the Maxfield establishment in South Cottonwood, complained of and reported upon by the county physicians, Mr. Murphy reported that those who were injured by it are entitled to the same relief as any other citizen injured by any other nuisance. They may enjoin it in a civil suit. Its maintenance is a misdemeanor and an action will lie against the owners. The county court may make such provisions for its abatement or proper regulations as it deems necessary for the proper protection of health. But under the present law Mr. Murphy advised the court to let the parties proceed by injunction.

The Maxfield establishment complained of is a vinegar factory. The clerk was notified to communicate to the owners of the factory the investigation of the county court.

THE COUNTY NOT LIABLE.

The question of the payment of the bill of Fred. McGurrin, for taking testimony in a criminal case before Justice Laney, was then discussed, and the claim finally rejected, it being the sense of the court that the county was not liable. This action disposes of several other bills of a similar nature, but it is not to be supposed that the matter will end here. It is understood that the question will be carried into the Third district court.

The county court meets again to-day.

A CARD TO THE PUBLIC.

Apparently a certain morning journal of this city seeming to be better posted on my intentions than I am myself, as will be observed by their statement on the 21st inst., to the effect that as soon as I had settled my business affairs I contemplated moving to Denver. Now I wish to inform my friends and the public in general that at no time during the past twelve years have I ever contemplated going to Denver or any other place, nor have I ever given the least intimation to any person or persons of any intention on my part to leave Salt Lake city. On the contrary, they have always been informed that I am located here for good.

I have been identified with various business enterprises in this city since 1873, and for the past six years in the insurance business representing the leading companies of America and Europe, in fire, life and accident, my office for the past year has been and still is in the Progress block, rooms 514 and 515, where I or one of my representatives can always be found, and I will be pleased to have all my old friends call at any and all times, and will also be delighted to form the acquaintance of all new comers, and have them bear in mind that the agency of Louis Hyams is one of the largest if not the largest in the country, the combined cash capital and assets represented in my office being over $200,000,000.

Respectfully LOUIS HYAMS,
SALT LAKE CITY, December 22, 1890.

A WONDER WORKER.

Mr. Frank Huffman, a young man of Burlington, Ohio, states that he had been under the care of two prominent physicians, and used their treatment until he was not able to get around. They pronounced his case to be Consumption and incurable. He was persuaded to try Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds and at that time was not able to walk across the street without resting. He found before he had used half of a dollar bottle, that he was much better; he continued to use it and is to-day enjoying good health. If you have any Throat, Lung or Chest trouble try it. We guarantee satisfaction. Trial bottle free at A. C. Smith & Co.'s drug store. 5

DIED A MYSTERIOUS DEATH.

A Strange Case Now Agitating the People of St. Louis.

Dr. Julius R. Stiepel was a German of St. Louis who lived a rather mysterious life and died a very mysterious death, the facts in connection therewith being sufficient to puzzle all the physicians and police of the city.

Late in the afternoon of Nov. 21 he drove to a police station and declared that he had been shot while driving on Lafayette avenue near Jefferson. All he could tell was that he heard a shot, felt a stinging pain in the head, and then a warm flow of blood convinced him that he had been hit.

He was sent at once to the city hospital, where the curious fact was noted that the blood was already dry on his head. The police also noticed that he drove up as if from a direction opposite to that in which he said he was shot. The surgeons promptly declared the wound a trifling one, as the skull was not fractured, and the doctor was taken to his home.

His wife, herself a doctor in a limited line, expressed particular surprise at his accident. The two conversed a while in German, and he lay down in good condition. In a few days he grew much worse, and Dr. Bernays discovered another wound—the ball, a 22-caliber, had lodged in the muscles over the right ear, but there was no fracture. He recovered so rapidly that the physician paid little attention to his case, his last call being rather a social one. After a long talk with Dr. Stiepel the physician left him late in the evening. About 4 o'clock the next morning he was found dead.

DR. J. R. STIEPEL.

Then several more parties appeared on the scene; they were agents and physicians of eleven insurance companies. And immediately after came the officials of some lodges and mutual benefit associations, and within twenty-four hours it was made known that Dr. Stiepel was insured for at least $75,000, and that he had lately made great efforts to insure for much more. Here were the elements of a mystery indeed.

At the inquest the room resembled a medical college lecture hall, so many companies were represented by their doctors. The brain was found perfectly natural—not a trace of disease or mechanical injury—therefore, said one section of the medical men, it could not have been suicide from insanity. No, said the other, the insanity may have been functional. The stomach and lungs also were sound—above average in condition. But the kidneys—there was the trouble. Their condition was that of nephritis. They were thoroughly diseased. Was it natural, or the result of some corrosive poison? The former, said the physicians, was barely possible, the latter most probable.

Then several more insurance men appeared. The doctor had for some time shown a most unnatural anxiety to insure, and some of the companies' physicians had rejected him on the ground that he was slightly insane. He had inquired anxiously whether the insurance would be paid in case he died by accident, and had admitted in one case that his life was threatened. So these physicians put forth the theory that Dr. Stiepel was "under the control" of some one who was inducing him to insure heavily, and that he then committed suicide. Perhaps the "control" knew that he was going to do so, and perhaps had the power to compel such action.

There the matter rests. The policies were made payable to his wife and child. He had but one. No particulars of his previous life can be discovered. He took no one into his confidence, and his wife was even more reticent. His body was cremated, as that was known to be his choice, and the insurance men now have the task of proving the cause and method of his death.

He Robbed His Bride.

One of the most puzzling facts in crime is that the average criminal can marry so easily and so often—and generally such good women. George Hardy is the last brilliant instance. He had a nice wife and a pleasant home at 2,010 Prairie avenue, Chicago, and last June he abandoned her, taking $1,100, all the available family cash. A few days ago he married Laura Hall, of the same city, a very beautiful young woman, who had some $1,500 in cash, and went with her to New York city. Two days later she applied to the police, stating that on their arrival at the hotel he had departed ostensibly to look after their trunks, but when, alarmed at his long absence, she had gone to the Grand Central depot, she had found man and trunks gone.

The broken hearted bride was furnished with a ticket to Chicago, where Mrs. Hardy No. 1 soon called on her, and the police of various cities were put on the lookout for Mr. Hardy. Of course he is described as a "dashing, handsome fellow, about medium height and well built"—no, not "of course," either, for it is one of the strangest facts in this line of crime that the oft-marrying man is often far from good looking. The secret in such a case is one that honest but timid lovers would like to learn.

Probably a Meteoric Explosion.

Early one morning recently the people of Mammoth Spring, Thayer and the surrounding section of Arkansas were awakened by a terrific report which shook up the buildings and crockery. As soon as day dawned the rumor gained circulation that the large Mogul freight engine had exploded on the switch yards at Thayer, and the report soon reached Thayer that the large boiler used in the dyeing department of the cotton factory had exploded at Mammoth Spring. By noon it was found that no such thing as a boiler explosion had occurred or that any dynamite had been given out at either place. After interviewing a number of persons who were awake at the time, and others who were astir before going to their day's labor, it was found that the explosion occurred in the air at no great distance from the earth, and caused such a shock to the earth and houses as to excite a widespread terror.

How's Your Liver?

Is the Oriental salutation, knowing that good health cannot exist without a healthy Liver. When the Liver is torpid the Bowels are sluggish and constipated, the food lies in the stomach undigested, poisoning the blood; frequent headache ensues; a feeling of lassitude, despondency and nervousness indicate how the whole system is deranged. Simmons Liver Regulator has been the means of restoring more people to health and happiness by giving them a healthy Liver than any agency known on earth. It acts with extraordinary power and efficacy.

NEVER BEEN DISAPPOINTED.

As a general family remedy for Dyspepsia, Torpid Liver, Constipation, etc., I hardly ever use anything else, and have never been disappointed in the effect produced; it seems to be almost a perfect cure for all diseases of the Stomach and Bowels. 4
